Glen View Park

Only 3 More Days to Buy at $25 to $50 ft.

After This Sale Prices Will Be $5 Per Foot More
THEY ARE WORTH IT NOW!

The only reason that they are not selling at these prices today is that we out-talked the owners of this property. They knew that the lots in this highly developed subdivision were worth more than the prices (pre-war prices) at which we were selling them for some time. The owners are going to raise the price $5 per foot on every lot. We requested six more days to sell at former prices. This was granted. We commenced selling Monday, Saturday night is our last chance—and yours.

Glen View is close to churches, schools and stores. It is a well-built subdivision. More than half the lots already sold. Nearly all of these homes are built on and the owners of these homes live there now. Glen View faces 850 feet on the South Parkway East. It is surrounded by handsome and beautiful homes.

To buy in Glen View now means that you will earn this increase in value that comes immediately when the owners put the additional $5 a foot into effect. Figure it out for yourself. On a 50-foot lot you will have made $250 within a week. Glen View has fast scheduled car service, has all streets down, has all sidewalks down, has all sewers in—and a title guaranty policy FREE with each lot.

Spokane To Fight High Living Cost By Eating Rabbits

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 15.—An attack on old H. C. L. from a slightly different angle is to be launched in Spokane under the auspices of the City Rabbit Breeders' association. It will fatten an enterprise in Spokane valley, a rich agricultural section immediately adjacent to the city, where 1,000 does will be maintained.

Once the enterprise is on a permanent basis it is planned to produce 250 rabbits for the table weekly. A breed producing good pelts will be utilized and the meat will be disposed of at a figure that will pay feed and overhead costs. The skins will be "velvet." If the association's plans work out in practice, and will return a handsome profit on the venture.

DANTZIG BUILDS BIG CITY FOR REFUGEES

DANTZIG, Oct. 15.—A new suburban city of temporary barracks has sprung up on Dantzig's outskirts, all fitted with beds, linen and blankets from the Red Cross warehouses in preparation for 25,000 refugees expected this autumn. The Dantzig authorities received advice from points as far away as the Murman coast that hundreds of families had started for Dantzig to return to their homes in Western Poland. A large number will be repatriated.

Dantzig from Copenhagen, where the wives and children of Polish nationals, driven from their homes, have been the wards of the Danish government.

AUSTRALIANS ARE TO GUARD HEROES' GRAVES

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Graves of Australians who died on the fighting fronts will be tended by comrades with whom the fallen heroes fought. Arrangements have been completed with the Imperial War Graves commission for the appointment of a number of Australian Imperial Force members to positions as cemetery caretakers and gardeners in France. Thirty-three have been appointed to date.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO HOLD EXAMINATION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 15. (Sp.)—The Tennessee state highway commission has recently announced an examination for resident highway engineers to be held in the capitol building at Nashville, Tenn., on Nov. 3, 1919. Under the law it is necessary for all resident engineers to stand a competitive examination for the examining board before they can be appointed to these positions. It is the announced purpose to secure a roster of eligible engineers who can be appointed to these positions as more engineers are needed.

It is also announced that there will be other positions open, such as instrument men, rod men and chain men, for employment in the various survey parties, as vacancies may occur. However, it is not necessary to stand the examination for these positions.

CANALE ON LAW.
Law enforcement will be part of an address which will be made by Phil Canale, attorney, at the luncheon of the Retail Credit Men's association Thursday at the Hotel Gayoso. He will devote a part of his talk to his impressions of the recent convention of the Retail Credit Men's National association, at St. Paul, Minn., which he attended as a delegate. The luncheon will be given from 12:30 to 1:30.

SOLDIERS MUST KEEP UP WAR RISK INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The bureau of war risk insurance wishes to emphasize the importance to service men of one of the provisions of the war risk insurance act upon the fulfillment of which may depend the validity of their claim to compensation under the act. The war risk insurance act provides that "no compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except that where, after a medical examination made pursuant to regulations, at the time of discharge or resignation from the service, or within such reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding one year, as may be allowed by regulations, a certificate has been obtained from the director to the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability."

Many discharged men are not familiar with the law and are allowing their rights thereunder to lapse. "Teaching of dancing in the public schools has no doubt greatly helped, if it has not saved the situation in regard to the physical development of London girls," said the medical officer. "Particularly noticeable is the much better arched instep of the girls in comparison with their own brothers, and with country children generally."

The relative absence of flat foot, thus brought about, is the foundation of that grace of carriage which the typical London girl of the elementary schools exhibits. In the country schools no dancing is taught, nor do the children there enjoy those outside stimuli to an interest in dancing which are characteristic of London life.

ENGLAND SECURES SHARE OF WORLD'S RAW SUGAR FIRST

Because of This Fact Supply of Sweets on New Orleans
Market Is Shrinking With Demand Increasing.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 15.—While 27,515,000 pounds of raw sugar since Aug. 1 in excess of receipts during the same period in 1918, local wholesalers repeated again that they are still unable to get more than 25 per cent of their orders filled at the refineries. The situation is universally considered more acute just now than during the most depressing period of the war. Dealers and refiners unite in saying that exports are responsible for this condition. Contracts made by the equalization board for export of Cuban sugar, which are said to be tying up the bulk of refinery production, are blamed for the shortage, which not only locally but in all other cities of the country, according to press dispatches, is rapidly approaching the proportions of a famine. While the receipts of the local port this season have far overshadowed those of last year, it is pointed out that the exports have attained even a higher percentage of increase. Bishop C. Perkins, president of the Sugar and Molasses Distributors' association, stated that the shipments from this port during the first seven months of this year exceeded those of the same period of last year by 77,919 long tons.

England Is Blamed.
Were it not for the fact that the British high commission had succeeded in contracting through the board of equalization for a third of the Cuban crop, which must be refined in this country, it would be difficult to understand why sugar is being doled out in limited quantities to New Orleans housekeepers. But England seems to be "the goat," and those in this city familiar with the true inwardness of the situation are not hesitating in blaming the whole local shortage on John Bull.

"It's all right to feed starving Europe," said one wholesaler, "but why not feed Americans, too?" The visible supply of sugar in New Orleans is shrinking daily. More and more stores are reserving their small supply for regular customers, and the separate purchase to them is becoming smaller. At the general offices of M. & J. Solari it was said they were able to get only a very small percentage of their orders filled at the refineries. This firm, which operates several stores, has been compelled, it was said, to cut down the individual orders and practically to suspend sales to occasional buyers. Other large retailers, who buy through the wholesale houses instead of the refineries, as the Solari house does, and are consequently feeling the effects of a double shrinkage, acknowledge even a more serious situation.

Worse Than During War.
Louis Fred Sivori, of Wash. Div. & Co., was one of the local wholesalers stating the condition now is far worse than during the war. "It is not a new situation," he said. "It has been coming on for months, and while the dealers forewent the present shortage, there was no way out." On Aug. 3 Mr. Sivori wrote J. H. McLaurin, president of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association, at Jacksonville, Fla., pointing out the fact that the season advanced and the demand grew he was getting smaller deliveries from the refineries.

Indians Talk To Strangers By Signs And Other Gestures

Most of us visiting a foreign land find it difficult, and sometimes impossible, to make our ordinary wants known, says the New York Herald. The Indians have no such difficulty. The problem of a universal language was solved centuries ago by the savage inhabitants of this Western world.

Should an Indian from northern Alaska go to Patagonia he could by means of this universal language converse with his southern brothers almost as easily as he could with his neighbors at home. That would also be the case if he visited Central America or met the tribesmen of our own Western prairies and mountains.

When this language was invented no one knows, but every Indian learns it in addition to his own. Once two chiefs of different tribes met in the city of Washington and held a conversation that lasted nearly three hours, yet neither one knew a word of the other's language.

Most of the signs are, of course, made up of signs. For example, if an Indian is passing through a strange country and sees other Indians at a distance, he makes the "peace sign"; that is he holds up his blanket by two corners so that it covers his whole figure. The same thought is expressed by extending the hands, palms outward, slightly inclined from the face. Any Indian would understand either of these signs.

Then there are the abstract signs by which they can express their thoughts with regard to the Great Spirit, heaven, good, evil, life and death, sickness, health, riches and poverty. Life is expressed by drawing an imaginary thread from the mouth and death by chopping the head off. Another sign for death is to hold the tips of the fingers of one hand against the palm of the other, and let them gradually slip awayward, and at last drop beneath the palm.

Most white people think that the Indian word for greeting, "Hi," is merely a contraction of the question, "How are you?" But that is not so. The word really means "I wish you health." "Hi" or "friend." So when he comes up and greets you with this seemingly inquisitive word, he is really wishing you good health, but telling you that he is a friend.

Activities Among Memphis Negroes

By Rev. T. O. Fuller.

At a conference held in the office of the governor of North Carolina at Raleigh, a council on race relations was formed. The council is composed of leading lawyers, churchmen, educators and business men of both races. They will work out a plan of racial co-operation that will be corrective and constructive, upon which both races will line up in good faith. Memphis needs such a council.

Many out-of-town people are in the city to witness the marriage of John B. Woods, Jr., to Shellee B. Cleaves, which will be celebrated Wednesday night, Oct. 15, at the residence of Bishop N. C. Cleaves, the father of the bride, on South Lauderdale street. Since graduating from Howe, Woods has served as bookkeeper and assistant cashier of the Solvent Savings bank, which position he resigned to devote his time to the office of state grand master of the Masonic Templars of America.

Removes Superfluous Hair
Roots and All—Instantly!
(Marvelous New Method)

The new phelactine process is as different from the depilatory, electrical and actual methods as is night from day. It removes the entire hair, roots and all, before your very eyes. It does this in just a few seconds, easily and harmlessly. Just try it! You can get a stick of phelactine at any drug store, with directions, which are quite simple. There is no odor to it, no irritating or poisonous constituent—you could even eat it without the least injury. It will leave your skin as soft, smooth and hairless as a babe's.

The history of the world has been the history of the struggle for power. The great world war among other things, was a great international struggle into which the fortunes of the nations were severely tested. Some were weighed in the balances and found wanting, but they went from the contest with the determination to forever keep their loins girt about and their intellectual lights burning. Hence the crowding of the schools all over the world. Educational boards are in a crisis and they need the sincerest sympathy and co-operation. Criticism as like putting the lash to an overloaded horse.

Dr. Sutton E. Griggs and Prof. William N. Jones went to Detroit to attend a very important meeting.

It is interesting to note how very sensitive some people are on matters that very vitally concern them. "I, me, my, mine."

A council on race relations could render splendid service at this particular time. Committees appointed at other times and for other purposes must not be suited to this particular task.
